PLANET – PEOPLE – YOU

ETHOS

COSSAC exists to offer women design-led honest fashion. We help drive awareness of the negative social and environmental impacts of our industry and make it easy for women to make better choices. COSSAC is committed to slow fashion with a focus on transparency, sustainability and social well-being. We reject the mainstream practices of fast fashion that produce low-quality and disposable trend-led items at the expense of garment workers and the planet and help women find beauty in their wardrobes again through our #ECOHOT Capsule concept.

FACTORIES

We care about the people who help make our clothes. Working almost exclusively with Portugal with either family-run or GOTS-certified factories - with whom we have built close relationships over many years - enables us to increase transparency and reduce the time, costs and carbon footprint of transportation. Our suppliers and factories hold certificates to assure our commitment to the planet and our respect for human rights. We also personally visit our factory partners at least twice a year to see that the processes comply with our ethical standards. This way, we maintain strong connections and open dialogue with the people producing our collections.

MATERIALS

Through ongoing education and experimentation, COSSAC continuously works towards its goal of making collections as low impact as can be. We carefully select sustainable materials such as organic cotton, tencel, modal and recycled fabrics. Importance is placed on how each material is made to ensure everything is ethically sourced, organic or eco friendly. We are committed to continuous improvement. Each season we introduce fresh innovations, always seeking eco fabrics and accessories, such as buttons made from food waste, to seize fashion's opportunity to do less harm.

BUSINESS PRACTICES

Sustainability is incorporated into every aspect of our business. All online store receipts, purchases and delivery details are communicated via email to reduce paper waste. We have eliminated all virgin plastic and all packaging and labelling are kept to an absolute minimum during deliveries. Our business cards, swing tags and boxes are made from recycled paper and are 100% recyclable. We also offset our in-house carbon footprint and offer carbon neutral delivery options. We make it our purpose to keep COSSAC pieces in circulation and extend the enjoyment of our garments by opening access to our archive for exclusive sales and participating in rental initiatives to further reduce waste. We continue to raise the bar on our eco credentials and aim to leave no trace apart from the statement our customers make wearing COSSAC.

COSSAC WOMAN

Feminine, cultured and considered, the COSSAC woman is a Conscious Fashionista. She takes pride in her appearance and loves fashion but is increasingly aware of its impact on the planet. She wants to make a statement and looks to brands that help her make a positive change. She invests in the finer things in life and looks for meaning in her purchases, preferring quality to quantity.

The COSSAC woman is confident, adventurous and well travelled; she finds value in experiences and seeks authenticity in her (life)style. She sees beauty in a bustling metropolis as well as the slower-paced countryside and needs her wardrobe to be versatile so she can style herself up or down throughout the day. She knows who she is, what she likes and what she wants.

“We celebrate confident women, naturally beautiful inside and out. We create stylish and consciously designed garments to help them express their life ethos and their ‘sass’ edge... COSSAC women are real and daring, smart and feminine, independent and playful”

ABOUT AGATA

05

Agata Natalia Kozak was born and raised in Poland before studying fashion in Barcelona at ESDi and then in Istanbul at the prestigious Mimar Sinan Fine Arts University.

After relocating to London, one of the world's fashion epicentres, Agata worked for both high-end and high-street labels and witnessed the furiously fast and destructive side of the industry she loves. In 2014, realisation led to innovation and Agata created COSSAC, a progressive label looking to take sustainable clothing to new #ECOHOT dimensions.

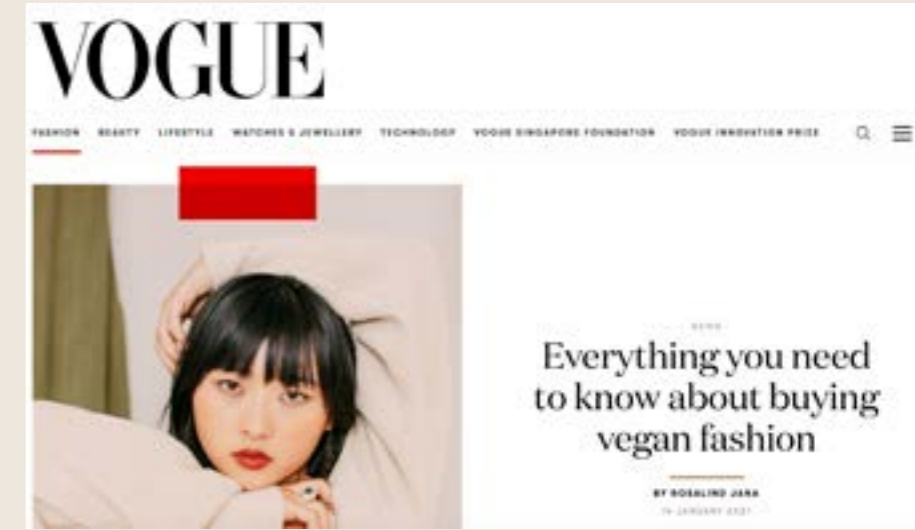

Thanks to her unique branding and design-driven take on ethical fashion, Agata - and COSSAC itself - has already gained support from conscious fashion advocates and received mainstream coverage in numerous publications including Vogue, Glamour, Nylon, Monocle and Hunger Magazine to name a few. Now residing between London and Madrid, Agata is one to watch, having established herself as a sustainable fashion pioneer.
